Salem Academy girls must be brilliant conversationalists, Faron. They take advantage of unlimited opportunities to broaden their minds through attending not only classes but also concerts and lectures on and off campus. The Community and World Service Committee and the girls individually stress helping others through special projects. Salem Academy girls enjoy

Religious Emphasis Week, dance week ends, a variety of clubs and sports, banquets, the Freshman Carnival, and lots more.

Imagine doing all this and still putting school work first! But Salem Academy is special, Faron, and if I haven't convinced you yet, listen to this: some of the girls have naturally curly hair.

Dedication

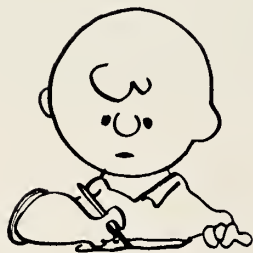

As we, the Class of '63, near the end of our years at Salem, one of our regrets must certainly be our leaving a teacher who for two years has been both counselor and friend to us. Who but Mr. Thompson has had the problem of teaching a group of giggly girls not to rise when he enters the room? He possesses the unique combination of a sincere dedication to his teaching and a sense of humor and toleration of our frequent digressions in class.

In the future we may fail to recall Knox's six ways of escape from the Ethic of Perfection. We will never forget, however, the most important lesson to be learned from our two years of Religion—that human understanding is one key to a fruitful life. This quality is a very obvious part of Mr. Thompson, to whom we dedicate with sincere affection and appreciation the 1963 Quill Pen.

Senior Class

JODY BENNETT
President

The Senior Class of thirty-four girls opened their year with the Birthday Banquet. After six weeks of studies and chapel talks, we celebrated with the Ring Banquet. Selling blazers to the Juniors and conducting a most successful Senior Bazaar brought us to the holiday season. We greeted Christmas by trimming Moravian candles for Senior Vespers and by selling Moravian cookies.

With the new year came many other events—the Slave Auction, tapping commencement marshals, Junior-Senior, and the Senior-Faculty Breakfast. The final and most anxiously awaited moment is almost here. Though graduation marks the end of our stay at Salem, we can never leave the memories of friends and experiences.

Last Will and Testament

Briefly, you each inherit one million dollars—oops! wrong will.
We, the graduating class of 1963, declare this our Last Will and Testament.

To the faculty, we leave peace.

To our parents, we leave scads of bills.

To the juniors, we leave the front rows in chapel and all senior privileges, whatever they may be.

To the freshmen and sophomores, we leave our sympathy.

To our friends, the following we bequeath.

JODY BENNETT leaves her diary of Rocky Mt. to Cathy Cutchin to continue.

MYRA BOONE leaves her knack of getting along with traffic cops to whoever needs it.

LINDA BROWN leaves her record "Forbidden Fruit" to Jane Wood. P.S. Not really.

LYNN CHATHAM leaves the telephone to ICS. Thanks!

ANE CHRISTENSEN leaves Ellie to enrich Salem for the next decade.

NANCY CRAIN leaves her ability to gain weight on a diet to Sue Lynn Aspley.

FRAN DARR leaves her turtle named "Diego" to Martha Dobson who has 2 of her own.

CATHERINE DAVIS leaves her ability to get everything done on time to Flavel McMichael.

JEAN DUTY leaves her petite taille to Sarah Noyes.

PARKER FORBES leaves her height to Diana Newman.

ADA GREENBLATT leaves her great self-assurance to Alice Zollicoffer.

RUTH HARRIS leaves her ability to be teased to someone egocentric.

BETTY HOLLIDAY leaves her electric toothbrush to Emily Tucker and her ticket to Myrtle Beach to Patricia Forester.

KATHY KIDD leaves her ability to go with the same boy for a long period of time to Diana Darr.

SHARON LECKIE leaves her love of Bluefield to Kathy Warden, Kathy Flynn, and Ann Luther.

PAULA McCLISTER leaves the Dramatics Club to Anne Workman, and Shan Pruitt.

CHARLOTTE MICHAELS leaves her one letter a year to Leslie Whitt.

ESTHER MIMS leaves her wonderful disposition to everyone.

LOUISE NADING leaves her job as editor to Charles M. Schulz.

ANN NEW leaves her leopard pantaloons to Martha Dobson to wear in Gaffney.

VICKY NEWLIN leaves her size to Dotty Walker.

MARY BETH PETERSON leaves her "pull" at N. C. State to Cheri Rose.

JENNY PLEASANTS leaves her riding ability to Sue Sue Britt.

KITSIE RAMM leaves Lee Ross Bost III to Ellie Christensen.

ANNE RIGSBY leaves her Peruvian address book and her llama slippers to Becky Peters.

LIZA ROBERTS leaves her round-edge scissors to whoever wants to cut hair.

BLANCHE RUSSELL leaves her love of Davidson to Cheri Rose and her giggles to Margaret Bell.

MARTY RUTH leaves peace and quiet to Anne Cotterill.

SUSANNE SPURR leaves her 5-year notebook to Brooke Johnson.

LUCY STEAD leaves all her blue clothes to Sherri Gibson and her love of washing windows to Susan Wright.

BECKY TODD leaves her tutoring in Math and her love of Math and Chemistry to Sharon Davis.

JUDY WALSTON leaves her metropolis of Walstonburg to Linda Beam in hopes that she will consolidate it will Cherryville.

ANN WEBB leaves her ATO fraternity pillow to Carol Graham.

POLLY WEBER leaves the trophy cup to the next Gold head, so she thinks!

And I, CHARLIE BROWN, leave my deepest sympathy to the next unsuspecting fool!

Class of 1963

Junior Class

Soon after school began members of the Junior Class began to act strangely. The doors were closed securely during class meetings, and conversation topics were changed as a member of another class approached. It was evident that preparations for Junior-Senior had begun. The Juniors seemed to pop up everywhere selling food, note cards, address books, and slouch day tickets. There was time out only for the excitement of blazers. Strenuous work unfolded a wonderful and memorable Junior-Senior.

After this project Juniors were still busy. New responsibilities were added as the end of the year arrived and their senior year approached.

Sophomore Class

Thank goodness for the Sophomores and their apple campaigns; or the dieters, the largest organized society at Salem Academy, would all starve between meals. This, however, is only one contribution of the class. The Sophomores are perhaps the best link between the green Freshmen and the wise old upperclassmen.

Their projects have included food sales, the Sophomore Skit, and the Open House given the afternoon of Junior-Senior. Their spirit and enthusiasm mark them as a very industrious group.

Freshman Class

The green Freshmen soon felt as much a part of Salem as the old girls this year. They delighted the seniors at the Ring Banquet in the fall not only with their ebony and shining gold rings but also with an appropriate poem by Sue Cotton, original decorations, and a delicious meal.

The Freshman Carnival on January 26 was the major project. All Salemites had a hilarious night playing the games and just looking at the ingenious ways in which the Freshmen carried out their prehistoric theme.

Certainly they had a very successful year and helped to make it one for the rest of us.

ANNE RIGSBY
President

Student Council

Each Salemite is a member of the student body, which is led by the Student Council. This Council, consisting of a representative from each of the six halls, two Senior Counselors, two day student reps, the president of the Council, and the president of the Honor Council, meets regularly each week to discuss problems of dormitory life.

At the beginning of the school year the Council sponsors the traditional Birthday Banquet when the Seniors cut the birthday cake. In May the Council sponsors the closing banquet and the meaningful Spirit Fire Service in the May Dell, which mark the end of another year at Salem Academy.

Honor Council

Upon arriving at Salem Academy, each girl plays an integral part in the honor system. Through the endeavors of the Honor Council—President, President of the Student Council, one representative from each class (two from the juniors and the day students); and the advisor Miss Krouskup, the spirit rather than the letter of the law is followed. By abiding by the standards of the honor code, each Salemite upholds her responsibility of personal integrity in all phases of life and of helping others to do the same.

LOUISE NADING

FRAN DARR
Ass't Editor

The purpose of the 1963 Quill Pen staff was to provide each student with a permanent and unique record of her memories and experiences here at Salem.

With the patience and enthusiastic guidance of its advisor Mrs. Goode this goal was attained. The yearbooks were distributed to an eager student body after the traditional Quill Pen Banquet in May.

Under the management of Susanne Spurr this year's Ad Staff contributed greatly to the publication of the Quill Pen. This organization of mostly day students collects advertisements from Winston-Salem and some out-of-town merchants to help pay for the publication of the annual. These girls deserve many thanks for their co-operation in helping with the 1963 Quill Pen.

Although members of Scribblers Club contribute several pieces of prose or poetry to each issue of the Academe, every member of the student body is urged to support the magazine with her literary endeavors.

Miss Nowack, the sponsor, has an avid interest in the Academe and does much to elicit the whole-hearted support of all Scribblers.

We all enjoy reading what our friends have submitted and—who knows—among those literary gems there may be something we have written!

Settings in place, everybody? How's my make-up? Please don't forget my last cue! This is what one might hear backstage on the night of a Salem Academy play.

Each year the Dramatics Club presents three one-act plays and one three-act play. Dramatics involves fun as well as hard work. From this experience one gains poise and a variety to her Academy life.

Certainly the audience gets as much fun out of watching the performances as the actresses get in putting them on.

DANCE COMMITTEE: Jane Wood, Ann Webb, Kathy Kidd, Midg West, Margaret Bell, Sarah Noyes, Jody Bennett, Linda Brown

Social Committees

The Social Committees at Salem Academy are important for their contribution to the non-academic side of life.

The Dance Committee plans and effectively decorates for the school dances usually held in the fall and spring in the social room. The Banquet Committee pool their efforts to transform the dining room into a magical place fit for the occasions of the Father-Daughter Banquet in November and the Birthday Banquet in late winter.

Through the careful planning and direction of each committee, social events at the Academy have been very successful.

BANQUET COMMITTEE: Ada Greenblatt, Anne Adams, Charlotte Michaels, Anne Workman, Marty Ruth, Blanche Russell, Crystal Eisenberg, Lee East-

Community and World Service Committee

ANE CHRISTENSEN and RUTH HARRIS
Co-Chairmen

Each of the halls and day student groups elects a representative for this Committee which devotes itself to helping others less fortunate than ourselves.

Through donations from the student body the Community and World Service Committee sends several girls to the Colegio Morava, the Moravian school in Nicaragua, and sponsors Daniela Proietti, our foster child in Italy.

Since the Community and World Service Committee joined the Red Cross last year and now handles all of the Red Cross funds and drives, our Committee has gained more contact with the surrounding community.

Glee Club

Every Tuesday and Friday of this year the walls of Salem Academy rang with the sound of harmonious voices. The Glee Club under the excellent direction of Mrs. Burroughs was practicing. The few who did not participate studied to music during those afternoons.

The quality of the music sung is perfected only through the continuous exercise and practice offered to each girl in the Glee Club. Any girl who wishes to join has a chance and once she has joined, her year in Glee Club is rewarding.

The first event was the Father-Daughter Banquet at which the fathers were thrilled by a concert given by their daughters. This concert is the Glee Club highlight of the Thanksgiving season.

Next came Christmas and with it the concert at Adelaide's Church and the Christmas Concert on the eve of vacation.

After Christmas everyone came back refreshed and ready to perfect a program for the Mother-Daughter Tea immediately before spring vacation.

The joint concert with Asheville School also contributed to the enthusiasm increasing with the coming of spring.

Finally the Glee Club culminated its year of successful and enjoyable work with its performance at Commencement Vespers.

Spiritual Life Council

Composed of the Cabinet members and one representative from each hall and from the day students, the Spiritual Life Council is directed by its president and its advisor Miss Wheeler. The Council strives to provide spiritual stimulation for each Salemite. Various activities such as the pajama party for the new girls, the party for the Children's Home, Friday night discussions, and Spiritual Emphasis Week are sponsored by the group. Thus each girl is given an opportunity to participate in Salem's spiritual program.

Athletics

Sarah Noyes swings the Indian clubs.

Leslie Whitt bounces on the trampoline.

Gold Cheerleaders

Athletic

Intramurals began this fall with hockey and soccer. Then came volleyball, badminton, and basketball. Spring intramurals included tennis, golf, archery, and softball.

Muffet Lavidge and Louise Nading enjoy a relaxing game of tennis.

Margaret Bell enjoys riding on a cool fall day.

Purple Cheerleaders

Nancy Crain and Ada Greenblatt keep the ball from Linda Brown.

Calendar

Each team, cheered by its own cheerleaders and the student spectators, has played thrilling and suspenseful games throughout the school year.

Fran Darr aims for a bull's eye.

Katy Gilmore, Zolly, and Lucy Stead battle for the hockey ball.

Patricia Forester prepares for a homer.

Polly Weber, Head of GOLDS, and Myra Boone, Head of PURPLES

Athletic Council

This year the response to Salem's athletic program has more than doubled in enthusiasm partly through the efforts of our dynamic new gym teacher Miss Johnson. At the Athletic Banquet this fall new girls were chosen by each team head and took their part in the tug-of-war. As legend has it, the team winning the tug-of-war will win the silver cup in May.

Each girl earns team points by participating in extracurricular sports. The team with the most points at the end of the year wins the cup.

Salem takes pride in athletics, because they promote sportsmanship, team work, and school spirit essential to a well rounded Salemite.

Honor Graduates

Each year the two seniors with the highest scholastic averages throughout their years at Salem are chosen Honor Graduates. In recognition their names are inscribed in gold on the wood plaques in the social room with past Honor Graduates. For maintaining the highest average in their academic work, the honor this year has been earned by Anne Rigsby and Louise Nading.

Academic Commencement Marshals

These outstanding underclassmen have been chosen Academic Commencement Marshals, one of the highest honors a girl at Salem may receive. The Senior Class chooses them on the basis of school spirit, citizenship, academic standing, and poise to serve at the Senior-Faculty Breakfast in late spring and to marshal for the seniors at graduation.

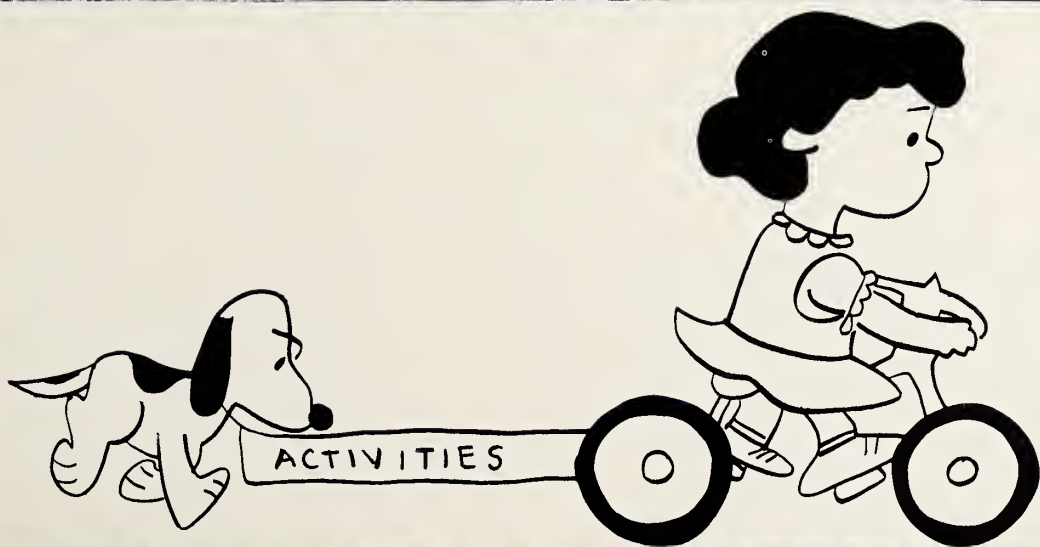

KATHY KIDD-BEAUTY QUEEN

Beauty Queen

A Salem Beauty is something to behold. There were a number of candidates this year, in fact thirty-three of the thirty-three members of the Senior Class. The Sophomores sponsored the contest and announced our favorite on February 23 before Junior-Senior. This was a delight to the winner and naturally her date was proud. Runners-up were Charlotte Michaels and Ane Christensen.

Activities

Senior Activities

Each senior chooses an underclassman to be her marshal during the year. Duties of the marshal include helping seniors get ready for the Class Day picture and the Junior-Senior dance. Though her duties are few, the marshal is important as a link between seniors and underclassmen.

that you are graduating into one of the most promising areas of the nation? A recent urban research study forecasts "a linear city" for the 300 miles stretching through the industrial Carolinas. Here, in the 20,000 square miles served by Duke Power, scores of thriving towns connect busy cities. Research centers, colleges and universities, and hundreds of industries thrive.

Here in the Carolinas Crescent, there is real challenge and opportunity. There is a place for you to fill, a job for you to do, in an exciting future that begins—right now.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE

As Snoopy reads the crystal ball—

We see FRAN DARR teaching, her first graders how to finger-paint. At night we see her bowling on a couples' league with her husband. In the next lane, we see VICKY NEWLIN teaching her 5 children how to bowl. Beside her is a copy of Marjorie Morningstar, unopened. She tells us that ANN NEW, now married, is still trying to decide if she made the right choice. Since RUTH HARRIS still can't stand to be teased, we won't say how we see her. On the subject of marriage, ANN WEBB, still wearing the ATO pen, can't understand why her boy hasn't proposed; on the other hand, KATHY KIDD got married during her freshman year at Emory and now has 3 and 1/2 children. BECKY TODD has also recently announced her engagement, but since marriage is nothing to rush into, the wedding will be several years off. It seems that MARY BETH PETERSON was getting married last month. Guests included LYNN CHATHAM and her husband. On the way, they met with an unfortunate accident and were taken to the Baptist Hospital. Who should they run in to there but Nurse JODY BENNETT, recently graduated from Carolina. They were taken to the doctor, who by the way is SHARON LECKIE'S husband, and were released shortly. KITSIE RAMM is still thinking about Mr. X and Mr. Y, but she's decided that "a bird in the hand is worth 2 in the bush" and now she's Mrs. Z. JENNY PLEASANTS has recently won first place in the National Olympic Riding Show; MYRA BOONE has won first place in the basketball events; and POLLY WEBER has won first place in the track race. It seems as though our class has produced quite a few very athletic girls. Congratulations! CHARLOTTE MICHAELS, and her train of suitors, went to Myrtle Beach for a while last summer. There they visited BETTY HOLLIDAY, who now runs the place, and SUSANNE SPURR, who is married and lives in her husband's mansion on the beach. It seems that PAULA McCLISTER has a very hen-pecked husband, and she still insists on wearing her Salem ring instead of her diamond engagement ring. She has a standing hair appointment every day with the former LIZA ROBERTS, the famous beautician. Among Liza's other patrons are BLANCHE RUSSELL, who is now dean of men at Davidson, JUDY WALSTON, the mayor of Walstonburg/Cherryville consolidated, and LUCY STEAD, who is in charge of washing windows at Duke. The Secret Service Department has offered MARTY RUTH and ADA GREENBLATT the job of entertaining Caroline Kennedy. JEAN DUTY has been investigating the offer to be sure it is honorable. PARKER FORBES and NANCY CRAIN are members of an exclusive religious society which has elected Evangelist CATHERINE DAVIS as head of the Women Circuit Riders. LINDA BROWN has recently patented a new kind of moisture cream guaranteed to correct dry skin. Congratulations, Brown! ANE CHRISTENSEN and ANNE RIGSBY have joined the Peace Corps, and while they are in China, Ane is planning to investigate the whereabouts of that Chinese pen-pal she never got. Good luck! Last of all, LOUISE NADING is conducting a survey to find the advantages of northern and southern colleges, specifically Swarthmore and Randolph-Macon.

Thank you, Snoopy and thank you, crystal ball!
